This table summarizes the significance of each house in the horoscope, starting from the first house (H1), which is the Ascendant (Lagna). It displays:

- The planets residing in each house
- The planets aspecting (viewing) the houses
- The nature of these planets — whether benefic or malefic

The final two columns show the total benefic and malefic strengths for each house. These values help estimate the potential effects of the house in the native's life. A higher benefic strength typically indicates more favorable outcomes. The possible maximum strength score of any planet is about 300

The effects of planetary positions in the horoscope charts unfold over time, as the various Dasha–Bhukti (major and sub-period) phases are activated throughout the native's life.
